

Free membership for students (normally £50 per year)

There are 49,000 children and young people across the UK living with a condition that means they might not reach adulthood. Together for Short Lives is the only charity representing all these children and their families as well as the professionals and services that support them.

If you are thinking about a career working with children with complex health needs and disabilities, join Together for Short Lives and get access to the most up to date information and resources, for free.

As a member, you will find out....

- How you can support children who might not live to reach adulthood.
- What children's palliative care involves.
- Who is involved in caring for life-limited children and what their roles are.
- About the latest research in children's palliative care.
- How to talk with children and their families about death and dying.
- About the different services that can help.

All this for free!

- Regular newsletters looking at various aspects of children's palliative care - new research, good practice, government policy, ethics and issues in care.
- News about job opportunities, training events and conferences.
- Electronic copies of all new Together for Short Lives publications like our acclaimed Core Care Pathway document.
- Discounts for Together for Short Lives publications and registration fees for our events and courses.

Joining is simple

Membership is free if you are a student studying nursing, medicine, social work, or any other subject, with a view to working with children who may have a life-limiting or life-threatening condition and their families.

All you need to tell us is:

- Your name
- Your email address (with a “.ac.uk” suffix as proof of your student status)
- Your course title
- Where you are studying
- Expected month and year of graduation
